

ALSO OF NOTE

■ Ten Archbishop Hoban High school seniors were inducted into the Hoban Academic Hall of Honor, maintaining a 3.8 grade point average and scoring at the 98th percentile nationally on the SAT or the ACT.

■ At St. Vincent-St. Mary High School, 94% of seniors were accepted to their first-choice colleges. Class aspirations include dreams of becoming a golf pro, NFL agent, air traffic controller and nutritionist.

■ Of the Hawken School graduating class, 24% will attend one of the top 20 universities/colleges as listed in the 2013 U.S. News and World Report rankings; 7% of those will attend one of the traditional eight Ivy League institutions.

■ Cleveland Central Catholic High School has a senior who is a fashion entrepreneur and has designed a clothing line called L.A.M.E., which stands for Living As Me Everyday. He took textile and sewing classes at Central Catholic and will pursue fashion design upon graduation.

Cleveland Central Catholic is the only Catholic high school in the diocese that offers an educational program for students who are developmentally handicapped and learning disabled and 14% of the school's students have special needs. Still, 98% of seniors graduate and 83% of students matriculate to college.

■ Three University School students signed National Letters of Intent, but six overall plan to compete at the NCAA Division I level. One plans to compete at the NCAA Division II level, and six plan to compete at the NCAA Division III level.

■ At Walsh Jesuit High School, scholarships awarded by the school the student has chosen to attend amount to $6,106,025.

■ The only Northeast Ohioan and the only girl in the state to be named a 2013 U.S. Presidential Scholar is from Hathaway Brown School; and the only high school film-making competition in Northeast Ohio was created and facilitated by an HB senior.

■ One Laurel School student will attend a Canadian university, and one will be in Scotland. One was admitted to a combined BA/MD program. One is spending her gap year in Israel. Of the graduates, 50% were admitted to at least one highly selective school.

■ At Benedictine High School, the average yearly scholarship is $14,036 per student, with 193 accepted applications for an average of 3.6 per student.